

ABSTRACT

This PTC thermistor provided with a conductive member having PTC characteristics and two electrodes each placed in two different locations on the 5 conductive member, characterized by the conductive member and at least one of the two electrodes being bonded via an adhesive which has conductivity and which at the same time deteriorates in an overheated state and irreversibly increases the electrical resistance.